FOR PROTECTION
FROM FLAMES.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Although winter weather has set in on the Somme fighting continues as fiercely as ever. There were violent artillery duels both north and south of the river all night with French and British guns engaging the German batteries. South of the river the Germans kept the French positions in front of Chaumussy under a hot fire. The object of this cannonade was evidently to prevent infantry attacks. General Foch's forces are now engaged in a tremendous effort to capture this important railway town, from the Germans to cripple their transportation of men and munitions.

"Flare of soldiers" is the latest development in the great game of mankilling on the Somme. German soldiers equipped with a new kind of flame grenade are sent against the allies.

The grenades burst into flames when thrown and soldiers using them wear asbestos uniforms.

BERLIN, via Sayville, Nov. 9.—The British auxiliary which sank the German submarine U-41 flew the United States flag. This information was contained in the following statement given out today through the official Overseas News Agency.

"The English admiralty in its report of November 6 declares that the circumstances attending the destruction of the German submarine U-41 as reported by the German admiralty on November 3, were incorrect.

"The following reply, based on competent authority is herewith given:

"The English admiralty declares incorrect only one of the facts communicated by the German admiralty, and says that the German submarine was shelled and sunk by an English warship that was flying the English, not the American flag. By taking exception to this one point only, the English admiralty, by reason of its silence, admits that the rest of the German report is true. Therefore it must be considered indisputable that the last on which two German survivors had taken refuge was intentionally rammed by the British in order to kill the last witnesses of the crime. Since this failed, both witnesses were shown no mercy, and although one was badly wounded and without assistance, both were locked in a small shed resembling a cage. The badly wounded prisoner was then thrown into prison with his wounds still open and undressed. Everything possible was done to make him die of his wounds. His transportation to Switzerland was prevented, although a committee of Swiss surgeons advised it.

"Likewise it was made impossible for the prisoner to report to the German government through the United States embassy. Thus the English admiralty confirms the German report almost completely. These facts, moreover, are morally corroborated in the relation of the general report to the point in dispute. Obviously the English admiralty would not admit that the American flag had been used for the protection of one of the most disastrous crimes in the history of naval warfare. Nevertheless the German report stands true.

"This new Baralong case once more proves that there exists an order, issued by the British admiralty, according to which it is not necessary to rescue the survivors of crews of German submarines. The English note of February 5, 1916, only disputed but does not refute this. This fact is characteristic in itself."

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Returns gathered today by Clerk W. P. Halley, of the senate, and Clerk W. P. Maynard, of the house, indicate that the democrats have won control of both branches of the state legislature. The tentative count shows 23 democrats and 13 republicans in the senate, and 76 democrats and 52 republicans in the house.

This means the retirement of both clerks in January and the election of democrats.

John R. Cassidy, who retires as probate judge of Logan county, will probably have Governor-elect Cox's support in the house, Cassidy has announced his candidacy. Floyd Atwell, Columbus, at present clerk in the supreme court reporters' office, undoubtedly will be a candidate in the senate.

Lieutenant Governor-elect Bloom will preside over the senate and a speaker of the house will be elected from among the democratic members. Among the probable candidates is Senator E. J. Hopple of Cleveland, who was elected state representative after he had been defeated for the lieutenant governor nomination by Bloom.

Among the other prospective candidates for speaker are Representative W. W. Stokes of Dayton, and Culbertson J. Smith of Hamilton, who returns for a fourth term. Hopple, who was minority floor leader in the senate two years ago, probably will have the support of the new administration.

Harris & EwingCounty Returns Reveal Great Tendency to Scratch
in Both Political Parties

By David W. Bowman.

If analysis of the semi-official returns from Allen county prove anything, they prove two things; the wide variety in the majorities of the winners may be interpreted as evidence of growing enlightenment on the part of the electorate or of wholesale scratching in various localities by the elements inclined to introduce the personal equation.

Judge Becker rolled up the enormous majority of 5075, with Appellate Judge-elect Kent W. Hughes next. The latter's lead over James E. Robinson in Allen county is 4773. On the other hand, Prosecuting Attorney Ortha O. Barr lost the county by 699 and Representative Cloyd Brotherton by 66, and the winning candidates' totals vary all the way from Emmet Fisher's 2404 to Cox's 143.

The rotating judicial ballot vindicated itself as far as this county was concerned, upsetting the dope handed out by the politicians. To some degree this may be ascribed to the action of the county committeemen in getting out marked samples indicating the political affiliations of the judicial candidates. Both Becker and Hughes got more votes on the new system than they would have received under the old straight party ballot method, for the longer the ballot the fewer the split tickets.

Taken all around, the election upset the dope of the professional forecasters in a dozen cases. With the Bluffton postoffice and the antipathy of the Germans as bases of figuring, the wise ones predicted that Pomerene would lose the county, adding that Cox would be a strong runner in Allen. The totals show the senator about 1300 ahead of the governor in pluralities.

The sheriff battle upset the extremists on both sides. Friends of the sturdy official predicted that Eley would lead the ticket. Adherents of the genial Jenkins expected him to wipe up the earth with the sheriff. Neither assumption is correct. Eley was a long way under the high man, but he is a blamed sight farther from a crushing defeat.

A third prediction advanced by the dopesters was that the sheriff and prosecutor fights would be linked together closely. The betting and promises of splitting of tickets seemed to center about "Eley and Barr". But while the sheriff was unmercifully cut in his own party and reinforced generously by the republicans, the prosecutor was cut by democrats without getting aid, help, support or assistance from the other side, hence the heavy vote polled by Cable.

Democratic committeemen claimed the county for Wilson by between 1500 and 2500. He split this about even at 2177. Pomerene ran like a fire engine just where he was considered weak. Brotherton, the busiest, most industrious and most obliging candidate on the ticket, whose promise was always redeemed by getting things done, got the gaff by 66 votes. Opponents of Congressman-elect Welty promised dire punishment for getting nominated against his wishes. But he carried the county, cut the republican lead in Miami from 2500 to 379, beat Russell an even 1200 in his own county and will go to Washington unless his opponents blow up a railroad bridge.

With but remote possibility of the official returns changing the following figures to an appreciable degree, the totals and pluralities of the national, state and local tickets are:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 high school cadets over the age of 14 years throughout the country are expected to be furnished with uniforms by the war department as soon as congress appropriates funds for the purpose. This will be the first time the government has furnished these uniforms, and is in accordance with the provisions of the national defense act passed last session. The quartermaster's department of the army has already made up its estimates for the coming year.

The defense act forbids the use of the military uniform of the army except by recognized cadet corps, over which the secretary of war has assigned a regular army officer as instructor. There are nearly 7,000,000 boys over 14 in the cadet corps of the public high schools, and it is estimated that nearly as many more are in private schools, who will apply for regulation outfits. The act requires the government to furnish uniforms for all these.

A further requirement of the act is that any school applying must have more than 200 cadets in its corps.

The purpose congress had in view when it framed the act was to prevent hotels and dressmaking establishments from degrading the service uniforms by imitating them as habits for porters, bell boys and other liveried servants. It is now unlawful for any one not a member of either service, army, navy or marine, or not a Boy Scout or a member of a recognized cadet corps, to wear a uniform identical in design and color with that of an officer's uniform.

An officer of the quartermaster's corps explains that a liveried servant might wear a uniform of the same cut and design, but it must not be of the same color, or it might be of the same color, but of a different design. The law furthermore makes it unlawful for anyone to use the service insignia of rank above the rank of non-commissioned officers.

Students of colleges where a recognized system of military training is in use under the direction of a service officer will be permitted to enlist as members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps, and a shield and regular insignia have been designed for their use. These colleges will be furnished such arms, tentage and equipment as the secretary of war deems necessary for their proper military training.

WILSON 3 500 AHEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—At 12:15 o'clock this afternoon, President Wilson's lead over Charles Evans Hughes was approximately 3,500, with 405 precincts still missing. Returns from 5,512 precincts out of 5,917, give Hughes 448,401, and Wilson 451,910.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—President Woodrow Wilson and Vice President Marshall have been re-elected president and vice president of the United States.

This became certain this afternoon when returns from California definitely placed the "Golden State" in the democratic column. Minnesota still is in doubt. If its vote goes to the president, it simply will swell his plurality in the electoral college. If it goes to Governor Hughes it will not change the result.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Five thousand five hundred and five precincts out of 5,917 in the state give Wilson 451,353 and Hughes 447,712, leaving Wilson a plurality of 3,641.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—National Democratic Chairman Vance McCormick received the following telegram from Senator Henry F. Hollis, democratic state chairman in New Hampshire, at 10:30 a. m.:

"Complete returns in the state house give Wilson a plurality of 93 in New Hampshire. A recount will increase it."

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 9.—All doubt that North Dakota had gone democratic, was dispelled at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, when complete returns from 1,714 out of 1,849 precincts gave President Wilson a majority of 1,504.

There are only 145 precincts yet to report and these are in the far northwest, in the rural districts, where the democrats are believed to be running at the ratio of 2 to 1.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Returns coming in today changed again the likely complexion of the next house of representatives. Substantial democratic gains were made and with 27 congressional districts missing at noon, the make-up of the next house was as follows:

Democrats 202; republicans 200; socialists 1; independent 1; prohibitionist 1; progressives 3.

Of the missing districts the majority now are held by democrats, and in states where the democrats have been making gains. As a result of this the democratic managers here were claiming that they would have a small but certain working majority in the next house.

U. S. SENATE DEMOCRATIC.

Revised Figures Give Them 54 and Republicans 42.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The United States senate is safely democratic. The revised figures today show that it will be made up as follows: Democrats 54, Republicans 42.

These figures are based on the apparent success of Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock in Nebraska, where at first he seemed to have been defeated; A. A. Jones, former assistant secretary of the interior, in New Mexico; J. B. Kendrick, democrat, in Wyoming, and Senator Atlee Pomerene in Ohio.

The biggest surprise of the senatorial contest was the defeat of Senator Lippitt for re-election by Peter G. Gerry, democrat, which was due to the latter receiving the united support of the labor leaders, and of Senator George Sutherland, republican, in Utah, where the women voters in different portions of western Utah elected William M. Calder, republican, in New York, served to show his great popularity in that state as he led the national and state tickets by thousands of votes in snowing under completely William F. McCombs, original Wilson man and former chairman of the democratic national committee.

Although on the face of the returns Chilton has been substantially defeated by his republican opponent, Representative Sutherland, in West Virginia, the democrats will not concede this and are preparing to carry the contest into the courts and before the senate itself.

It has been freely predicted that organized labor would defeat James E. Watson, republican, in Indiana, but the returns available here indicate that he ran well up with his teammate, Harry New, and that both senators from Indiana are republicans.

The defeat of Senator Dupont in Delaware was due to family troubles, members of his family who are on the outs with him over business matters having financed the fight against him. The result was the election of a democrat, J. O. Wolcott, despite the fact that Governor Hughes carried the state.

President Wilson carried Maryland, but he was unable to carry through with him David J. Lewis, the democratic senatorial candidate, who was defeated, his friends assert, because he was an open advocate of government ownership.

CONGRESS CONTROL DOUBTFUL.

Old Parties About Evenly Divide the New House.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Control of the house of representatives was still in doubt today. The outstanding factor was that the democratic majority of 21 in the last house practically has been wiped out. The latest returns available here today indicated that the next house would be made up of the following:

Democrats, 233.
Republicans, 215.
Prohibitionist, 1.
Protectionist, 1.
Independent, 1.
Socialist, 1.
Doubtful, 2.

In the case of the socialist, Meyer London, of New York, being re-elected, his democratic opponent claims that the official figures will defeat London but they will not be available for several days. The doubtful districts are in Pennsylvania and the decision there rests on the soldier vote. Representative William H. Coleman, of McKeesport, republican, was re-elected by a majority of 20 and his opponent claims the soldier vote will overturn this. Representative A. J. Barold, republican, was defeated by 19 votes and he hopes that the soldier vote will save him.

Although Miss Jeanette Rankin, of Missoula, Mont., claims to have been elected as the first woman to gain a seat in the national house of representatives, today's returns seem to indicate her defeat by a narrow margin.

Representative Frank Buchanan, of Illinois, who was indicted in New York for alleged complicity in a plot to interfere with shipments of munitions to Europe was defeated. Another victim was Clyde H. Tavenner, of Illinois, who led the fight against preparedness in the house. Warren Worth Bailey, of Pennsylvania, pacifist for whose re-election William Jennings Bryan made several appeals, also was beaten. One of the surprises of the contest was the defeat of Representative John J. Casey in the Wilkesbarre, Pa., district, which had been considered safely democratic because of the heavy labor vote there. Today it is reported that Representative Ernest W. Roberts, republican, and one of the best known members of the house from Massachusetts has been defeated by A. T. Fuller, an independent. The loss of Roberts will be serious if the republicans control the house.

CALIFORNIA SEEMS PIVOT

Democrats Claim State For Wilson as Count Proceeds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—California will decide the result of the presidential election. If the democratic claims that the president has a plurality in that state are true he has been re-elected. If the state's vote goes to Governor Hughes and he retains his apparent lead in Minnesota then he will be president.

New Hampshire has gone definitely for President Wilson. The complete count of the votes of the Granite state completed today shows that the democratic electors have a plurality of 55 votes. Republican national headquarters admits this although there was some talk there of making a recount. The fact, however, that the republicans control the election machinery of that state was held to indicate that the republicans already had received all of the votes they could expect in another canvass.

North Dakota apparently also has gone for Wilson although the republicans declare that they still are hoping. A telegram from National Committeeman Hildreth from Fargo to Vance C. McCormick, however, says that Wilson carried the state by 1258. Adding the votes of New Hampshire and North Dakota to the 251 votes which the republican national committee in its headquarters table concedes to Wilson the president has 260, or six less than is necessary.

The Hughes lead in Minnesota was slowly growing although the election inspectors quit counting early today for a needed rest. Although publicly the democratic managers continued to claim the state they privately admitted that they feared it would wind up in the republican column. Hughes was leading in New Mexico but the count was very slow and his lead was very small.

Wilson managers claimed they surely would carry California by a good plurality while the republican managers were hopeful they would get the state by a small figure. It was not expected that the result would be available before late today and possibly not until tomorrow.

Neither of the national headquarters would admit the possibility of defeat. They remained open all night and the rival chairmen and their chief aides kept the wires burning up with frantic appeals for the latest word from the close states.

Both republicans and democrats already have taken steps to force recounts in the close states. It seemed certain today that there will be another great contest which will rival in bitterness the battle which marked the Hayes-Tilden conflict.

It seemed certain today that no matter who may have the majority in the electoral college on the face of the returns he will have to fight for his certificate. The republican national committee is rallying to its aid the greatest constitutional lawyers of the country. So is the democratic and the initial fight will be made in the close states. The democrats openly charge corruption in many of the eastern states but especially in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois. This the republicans indignantly deny but the charge is certain to be aired in the courts.

So far as the results from California and Minnesota are concerned it seemed likely today that it would be late today before a definite figure could be obtained.

PANDORA WEDDING ARRANGED TO TAKE PLACE SATURDAY

Announcement has been made of the engagement in marriage of Mrs. Ethel Khorn Basinger, teacher in the Pandora school, and Orlo Marshall, of Rockport. The wedding will take place on Saturday, November 25, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin E. Krohn in Pandora.

Mrs. Basinger has frequently visited in Lima and is well known here. During the residence of her cousin, Mrs. L. O. Sager, at 843 North Elizabeth street, she was a guest here many times. She also visits Mrs. Otis McBride of 847, West Wayne street, and other friends.

Mrs. Basinger is a social favorite in Pandora and Bluffton. She was married about five years ago to Alfred Basinger of near Pandora. While on their wedding trip to Lake Erie, Mr. Basinger was drowned in the waters of Lake Erie, while he and his wife were enjoying bathing along the beach.

At the announcement party, given last Saturday evening by Mrs. Basinger, Mrs. A. P. Basinger, of West Market street, and Miss Caroline Sommer, of East Elm street, were present.

MONUMENT AS WINNING POST.

There are monuments in all sorts of out of the way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta river, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower Scobie, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning post for many of the races of the world's championship, and is still used as such for local events. # RIOTERS NEAR WEEK.

Trials of alleged rioters will not be held this week. Judge William Klinger today excused the petit jury from further service until next week. They will report for duty Monday, when the trials of Agnes Denmore and Gilbert Fox are called in court. Attorney L. E. Ludwig has been named by the court to defend them. Both men were indicted on the charge of assault upon Sheriff Eley.

BUCHER'S ARTICLE PUBLISHED IN A RELIGIOUS WEEKLY

The Rev. Chester S. Bucher, pastor of the First Congregational church, is the author of an article, "Preaching by Pictures" or "Screen Sermons," in the Advance, a progressive religious weekly, published in Chicago. The Rev. Mr. Bucher's church in Lima is shown in the article, and an advertisement, showing the way he attracts the attention of the public, is also exhibited in connection with the article. The Rev. Mr. Bucher has made the film the means of filling his church with members and friends and people who never otherwise are attracted to the church. He has almost doubled the membership, and has one of the leading congregations in the city. Since coming to Lima he has endeared himself to the people of his church and the city. He takes an active part in every movement for the uplift of the city.

DECLARES IMPULSE DROVE HER INTO THIEVERY 9 YEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Nine years of thievery for thievery's sake, not for the resultant loot—nine years of a losing struggle with an intermittent obsession to "steal, steal, steal," were confessed and described to the police by Mrs. Nellie Hentz, now in jail on scores of charges.

Her stealing brought her little financial profit, but it did bring her years of mental travail and worry in her efforts to keep from her husband and 12-year-old daughter, the fact that she was a thief.

"I didn't steal for money. I have a comfortable home and I never lacked for anything," she said. "I had barrels of money I would steal just the same. I sometimes threw away the things I stole. Mostly I hid them. A few days ago I threw into the river a watch I had stolen."

Mrs. Hentz is 40 years old, a motherly appearing gray haired woman, and she says she is glad that her mind is at rest.

"It has been awful," she continued. "I have fought and fought against this desire to steal and have walked the streets trying to shake it off, but always something lured me on and I turned thief again."

The spells came on her every few days, she said. But strong as was the impulse to steal, even stronger was her fear of the dark. As a result, all of her depredations were committed in daylight, which makes more remarkable the fact that she escaped detection so long. Incidentally, it was wavering between her desire to enter a house and her fear that it was not as devoid of occupants as it seemed, that led to her arrest when finally she went in. Neighbors called the police because Mrs. Hentz had acted so strangely on the doorstep.

FINDS NEW INSECT FOE OF MANKIND.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—War on insects that affect the health of man is being carried on with notable success by entomologists of the department of agriculture, with chief combat directed against the malaria-carrying mosquito.

Entomologists in their research work have just discovered a species of mosquito, hitherto considered a non-carrier of malarial infection, that has proved upon investigation to be a disease carrier. This particular species was found in Louisiana, and the spread of contagion, traceable to this source was shown to be mostly on plantations.

A campaign of extermination against ground squirrels and other rodent hosts of the immature ticks is being conducted by the entomological bureau. Examination of such rodents showed 40 per cent lower infestation by the ticks than during the previous year. Investigations into fly infestation of packing establishments are also under way.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 9.—A New York company has just paid Major F. L. Palmer, U. S. A., retired, this city, $12,000 for his collection of Philippine postage stamps. The collection is known the world over as the most valuable of its kind in America.

MEATLESS MEALS AID GYMNASIUM FUND

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—Mainly through the efforts of Breunau students, who two years ago agreed to do without meat for breakfast, to get money for the construction of a gymnasium, the new building will be erected soon on the campus at a cost approximating $15,000.

14 MILLION CADETS TO BE UNIFORMED BY UNCLE SAMUEL

ment has yet been appropriated by congress, but it is expected that a sufficient sum will be set aside to meet the estimates of this expense furnished by the secretary of war when he goes before the appropriation committee in December.

Furnishing the National Guard with overcoats for the winter is the big problem now before the quarter-masters' corps, and pending a congressional appropriation, they have not started the manufacture of cadet uniforms. Thousands of overcoats are being delivered at the supply depots of the National Guard there. As yet the weather has not become sufficiently inclement to require these garments, but the depots are being stocked. There are carloads being shipped south from Philadelphia every day. More than 50,000 coats, it is estimated, are now on the border, but there are nearly 100,000 of the guard who will have to be supplied this winter. High schools and colleges will not be supplied with this item of equipment.

The work of manufacturing the overcoats is going on in the army's Philadelphia tailoring shops, where the output is several thousand per day. In these shops also most of the high school uniforms will be made. Some of the uniforms may be made under outside contract, as some of the overcoats are now being made by New York contractors.

The latest piece of army equipment, which may later be supplied to cadet corps, is the rubberized weather coat. It is made of fabric now being used to protect aeroplane wings on the European battlefields. It is a cotton fabric soaked in a solution of rubber. It is described by army officers as the solution of a seven-year search for a goods from which the rubber would not peel. It has two finishes, one being soapstone and the other the potato finish. The finish depends on the material used in preventing the rubber sheets from sticking when they are rolled up just after manufacture.

One of the two processes in use, is to grind potatoes to a fine, soft powder, which is placed between the layers as they are rolled up for storage. When unrolled for use in manufacture the rubber cloth has a soft, velvety feeling. In the other process ground soapstone is used and gives a rougher, but equally as durable a finish.

Officers of the army do not believe the government will have to furnish cadets with these items of equipment, as there is little call for them in the drill work through which the high school or college student has to go. The year preparing for the equipment of the cadets with respect to uniforms and arms. The designs for the uniforms are already on the cutter's tables, and as soon as the money for furnishing them has been appropriated, the department expects to start manufacture and issuance of the uniforms.

NON-SUPPORT CHARGE.

Owen Nelson, indicted on the charge of non-support of his minor children, was arraigned before Judge Klinger in common pleas court, and pleaded guilty. He was ordered to pay for the support of the children, and Mrs. Sarah Doyerman was named as trustee to receive the funds. Sentence was suspended.

RAT BIG AS A BEAR SHOWN IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A rat as big as a bear is the latest wonder here. The rat isn't dangerous, it doesn't carry about cholera or yellow fever. Its name is pilotherium and it roamed the United States in the region now Colorado about three million years ago. The skeleton set up in the American Museum of Natural History here is the first complete specimen ever found.

Berry, Spencerville, and G. W. Holl, New Knoxville; 33rd, F. W. Thomas, Bowling Green; 34th, C. A. Benedict and G. J. Snyder, Toledo.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Unofficial returns received by Secretary of State Hildebrand from 34 counties tabulated today, give the following results:

Willis, 308,421; Cox, 321,226; Arnold, 295,358; Bloom, 315,273; Hildebrand 296,495; Fulton, 300,351; Adams, 286,829; Donahue, 314,425; Archer, 291,998; Bryan, 307,307; Turner, 297,318; McGhee, 302,653; Herrick, 234,652; Pomerene, 266,379; Joyce, 151,755; Donahue, 187,119; Summers, 169,793; Johnson, 199,712.

Among the missing counties are: Allen, Belmont, Champaign, Delaware, Guernsey, Jefferson, Lawrence, Licking, Lorain, Lucas, Montgomery, Portage, Trumbull, Wayne, Warren and Wyandotte. The vote in 139 Stark county precincts is missing. The Stark county vote on supreme court judges is missing.

Three precincts are out in Cuyahoga county. The Herrick vote in Hamilton county is missing.

With the election of the entire state democratic ticket almost a certainty, attention today was turned to the candidates for supreme judge, where the republicans appeared to have a chance to elect either James Joyce or A. N. Summers, and make the complexion of the high tribunal republican.

Judge James G. Johnson, democrat, was running ahead of the other candidates in 57 counties reporting, and while Judge Maurice H. Donahue, democrat, was second, his vote was being cut down by a large vote polled by John E. Madden, Otis-tawa socialist, which gave hope to Summers and Joyce, who were running about even.

THE IDLER

Joe Moreno pleaded guilty in Justice Morris' court yesterday to a charge of not paying for his means at the C. & H. D. railroad, and was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested several weeks ago and released on his own recognizance. Shortly afterward he disappeared from the city and on his return was placed under arrest.

H. H. Crane, arrested last night on a charge of disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty to the charge in criminal court this morning and was fined $1 and costs.

The United States has advanced to second position of importance in China's direct import trade.

MEN FEEL TIRED, TOO.

MORE THAN HALF OF STATES NOW IN DRY COLUMN

Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana and Utah Join In.

Three-fourths of Territory of United States Will be Under Prohibition.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Out of the maze of uncertainty and doubt which hangs like a pall over the political situation of the nation one feature, monumental in its proportions, stood out in bold relief today. It was this:
More than half the states of the country are now dry—or will be just as soon as the prohibition laws and officials elected on Tuesday can get into action. Territorially speaking, more than 75 per cent of the United States has banned the sale of alcoholic liquors under the cloak of legality.

Whatever be the result in the presidential muddle, Tuesday, November 7, 1916, saw the greatest victory for prohibition in history, despite the fact that J. Frank Hanley, the dry presidential candidate, was literally snowed under. Six states went over to the dry ranks—Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana, Utah and Florida. The latter pair did not vote directly on prohibition but the issue was between dry and wet candidates and the drys won overwhelmingly.

The victory places 25 states positively in the dry column—Maine,

Kansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, West Virginia, Colorado,
Virginia, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Alabama, Iowa, Arkansas, Idaho, South Carolina, Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Utah, Florida, Montana. Add to these the territory of Alaska, which voted Tuesday to oust saloons. The majorities rolled up for prohibition in the six states won Tuesday were so decisive as to permit of no other interpretation than that the nation is saloonless-bound, and will arrive in 1920, prohibition leaders said today. They are jubilant.

"We regard the backbone of the liquor traffic broken by Tuesday's results," said Virgil J. Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee. "Victory for nation-wide prohibition is assured in 1920." Only two of the states which voted on the liquor question Tuesday were in doubt today.

They are California—Where a lot of things are in doubt, and Missouri.
Wet forces claim each of these states, and today it seemed probable their claims will be borne out by facts and figures, although the latter are not available at this time.

In addition to winning six states,
the prohibitionists also elected Charles H. Randall to congress from the ninth California district, and are claiming the election of Atwood from the eleventh district of the same state and many state senators and representatives scattered broadcast throughout the country.

The prohibitionists regard Michigan as their greatest victory.
"They have said," declared Chairman Hinshaw, "that we never could win a great industrial state. Michigan is one of the greatest industrial states in the country. There can be one answer to this. It is this:
"Nation-wide prohibition is on the way, and its arrival is scheduled for 1920."

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, is on his way to New Zealand today to organize an expedition to rescue ten of his men marooned on the west side of the Antarctic continent, after which he plans to return to England and join the British fighting forces. On his arrival at New Orleans, recently, Sir Ernest heard of the plight of his men, and immediately left for this city to sail for New Zea-

BOYS AND GIRLS WILL HEAR CORN GROWING DECISION

Meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Will be Held Friday.

Boys and girls of Allen county, who are entered in the domestic science and corn-growing contest, will assemble in great numbers tomorrow at the auditorium in the Chamber of Commerce, when the contest will be held to decide the winners who will go on the corn boys' trip to Washington and the east in December.

This is the first year that Allen county girls have had the chance to make the trip. This is due to the generosity of the Lima Chamber of Commerce, who will pay the way for the girl scoring highest in the domestic science contest. Fruits canned and preserved, baked goods and home sewing will make up the articles in the contest.

A competent judge will decide the merits of the work. Parents and the interested public are invited. A musical and literary program has been arranged for two o'clock, after which visitors may examine the work of the girls.

The Lima Chamber of Commerce is also providing the expenses of the winner in the corn contest of Allen county on this trip.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR COLD

of better. A stuffed head, a tight chest must be relieved at once. Dr.

the irritated membrane, antiseptic tar loosens the phlegm, and breathes easier and your cold is broken up.
Pleasant to take, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ideal remedy for children as well as grown-ups. At your

HOT RACE CAUSES MANY TO HEDGE

Shifts in electoral votes of the two presidential candidates that were reported in Lima last night and this morning caused betting to favor one of the candidates and then the other. Early yesterday morning the republican candidate was favored, many wagers of 10 to 7 being made.
In the evening following the report of the large gains of Wilson, quotations again switched and much Wilson money offered at 2 to 1 was in evidence, but there were few Hughes men anxious to take it.

Because of the close race of the two candidates and the subsequent protests that are looked for, it is hardly likely that any bets will be paid on the outcome of the race until late in the week. On account of the closeness of the race few new bets are being made, but many back-ers who made bets early in the race are anxious to hedge and break even.

OFFICIALS PROBE LAKE ERIE WRECK

Officials of the L. E. & W. railroad have not fixed the blame for the wreck at Fremont last Sunday in which two Lima men were killed and three other residents of this city were badly injured. A careful investigation of the affair will be made before any report of the cause of the wreck is made public.

William Baumbarger, foreman of engines on the L. E. & W., with offices at Lima, who had charge of cleaning up the wreckage, state that this was one of the worst wrecks that the railroad has experienced for a number of years and that it will cost the railroad in the neighborhood of $25,000.

STATE ISSUES MANY AGRICULTURE BULLETINS.

During the year ended June 30, 1915, the Ohio experiment station at Wooster published 19 bulletins and circulars aggregating 750 pages, according to the last annual report of the director, just issued as Bulletin 30 from the station. This station is the only one in the United States that publishes scientific works in technical bulletins and gives popular information to farmers and city dwellers in a monthly journal. The monthly bulletin was started in January, 1916.

Last year more than 50,000 persons in all counties of Ohio and in all states of the union received the publications of the Ohio station.
Federal statistics for 1915 show this mailing list was the largest of all experiment stations.

NEW DANGERS MENACE MISSISSIPPI BOATS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 9.—Three big packets recently have been wrecked and many others have had miraculous escapes from destruction by running into snags in the Mississippi river. After more than two years, during which the river was always many feet above the low water mark, the stream has fallen until submerged obstructions on the bottom of the river are becoming a menace. Experienced pilots are almost helpless as the obstructions formed on the bottom of the river during high water and their presence is not known until some unfortunate boat runs foul of them.

The boats that have gone to the bottom of the river are the Cape Girardeau, with a loss estimated at $100,000, the Stacker Lee, $140,-
000, and the General Pearson, $20,- 000.

Government boats are making new surveys of the river, and locating channel lights but it will be many months before all the new dangers are charted. Pilots in some localities have to learn the river all over again.

BANKERS BUY CATTLE TO AID THE FARMERS

MARION, Ind., Nov. 9.—The banking interests of this city have plans under way for a co-operative scheme of boosting Grant county as a dairy cattle center. The bankers, it is understood, will buy a herd of fine dairy cattle and then turn them over to the farmers in small lots at the original price. The bankers will take long term notes in payment for them, so that farmers who enter the dairy business will have plenty of time to repay them.

TAKING CHANCES

While the election is still undecided as we go to press, the far western states hold in the balance the future of the United States, if the campaign has meant anything.

Whether he is defeated or elected, Woodrow Wilson has won a niche in the temple of fame, and we believe that history will, a century hence, acclaim him as one of the greatest presidents of the American republic. His four-year term has brought us progressive legislation enough to mark a new epoch in the affairs of the nation. He has established diplomatic precedents which will stand out as beacon lights in the development of international law. If he has been chosen to guide the country he will have been named without New York, Illinois or Pennsylvania, something never before witnessed since the admission of the second. Wilson started out to fight Wall Street and has lost the states controlled by the money power, but he still has a chance to win without them.

We are sincere in a hope that Hughes will not become president, for that would mean that the American nation had voted to take a gambler's chance on the future. Wilson has stated that he will take the verdict of November 7 as acceptance or rejection of his Mexican policy, and the only alternative to that is war. If the nation has voted for intervention and war to protect Wall Street interests in the republic to the south of us, watch out for the next sixty days.

Hughes has admittedly refused to declare his policies. By vague generalities and evasive phrases, clever dodging and agile sidestepping, he has managed to keep his personal attitude on public questions a mystery. Behind him is aligned the most incongruous and motley group of interests ever assembled in American politics. Capitalists who believe him an anarchist in business are united with radicals who call him reactionary. Partisans who want war with Germany are united with Germans who expect a more pro-German policy at Washington. Religious elements who demand the overthrow of the Carranza government are hand in hand with other interests opposed to that church, who have listed the president for slaughter to eliminate one of his official family. Pacifists are united with militarists to compass his defeat. Never before has such a coalition joined together to vengeance on a public servant, and the fact that they are themselves opposed to one another in motives is the best indication of the fairness of Wilson's middle course.

Hughes was not a weak governor, but his strength was partially that of the headstrong and obstinate. His temperament is impulsive and his nature leads those who know the man to believe that he needs a balance wheel. And with the headwinds of Roosevelt playing the role of Warwick the king maker, Heaven help the United States. The election of Hughes will be a leap in the dark. Only a miracle can prevent trouble.

OUR JUDGES

Have you noticed the enormous pluralities rolled up in Allen county by Fred C. Becker and Kent W. Hughes? The former, a popular and capable guardian of the interests of widows and orphans, his lead mounting to 5,439. The previous record, also made by Judge Becker, was about 2,800.

Kent W. Hughes, for judge of the court of appeals, went well over the 4,000 mark with is plurality. His heavy plurality in Allen county in the August primary indicated that his worth was known at home, but that he would run like this in a presidential election with a rotating non-partisan ballot was unexpected. At any rate, Allen county has a pair of jurists of which she can be proud, and the testimonial of the public is the best endorsement they can have behind them.

Governor Willis, by his own reply to the query of the Ohio Federation of Labor, stands as the champion of the liability insurance interests in this state. He confesses guilty to the charge that has been made against him as the wreck of workmen's compensation. Over the signature of its executive officers the Ohio Federation of Labor endorses the record of Governor Cox in this regard and says that he has signed their petition and that his position in behalf of labor is clear.

Widespread coercion of voters has been attempted in Ohio in the mills and coal mining regions. The men who have been receiving a share of the Wilson prosperity simply laugh at the threats against them and intimidation, for they know full well that no mill which is behind in its orders more than six months is going to sacrifice tremendous profits already in hand.

Now we know what will happen to Charlie Philbrick "five minutes after twelve" in inauguration day at Columbus. And the chances are that he does too, for Cox hasn't hesitated to say.

What ever became of Harvey Garber's ability as an author of little red books? The diminutive starlet volume of 1916 appears to have been written in reverse English.

If foodstuffs continue to rise in price the only thing within reach of the average man will be a bundle of greenbacks.

Cheer up. Blaine didn't know he was licked for sure until November 18, 1884. And how about the Hayes-Tilden scrap?

Have you heard the silence from Oyster Bay? Now we know how the place got the name, but why did T. R. ever choose it?

You may not know that the Wall Street betting was two to one against Lincoln in 1861.

Don't pay any bets until inauguration day if you want to be safe.

Wonder what kind of municipal ownership Ed Blank will want next?

GOOD EVENING: Let's fight it out.

USE PHOSPHATES WITH MANURE

Since phosphorus is carried off the farm in relatively large amounts in grain crops, in the bones of animals, and in milk, soil specialists at the Ohio experiment station recommend the use of acid phosphate or raw phosphate rock to reinforce baryard manure, if the fertility of the soil is to be maintained. Acid phosphate is more generally recommended, because under average conditions it is more effective and more economical than the raw rock.

Acid phosphate has returned more than three times its cost in crop yields in many tests at the experiment station, even when use in connection with manure. It is ordinarily used at the rate of 40 pounds per ton of manure. The phosphate may be spread over the manure in the shed or yard or mixed with it at the time of hauling. It may also be sprinkled over the stable floor behind the animals, about one pound being used daily per 1,000 pounds live weight of the animal. In the latter case it also acts as an absorbent of the liquid manure.

BABY HAD WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. Sam C. Small, Clayton, N. M., writes: "My grandson had whooping cough when he was three months old. We used Foley's Honey and Tar and I believe it saved his life. He is now big and fat." ## PENNIES DON'T GO IN PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Under the slogan "Pennies Won't Satisfy Pennsylvania Pride," the association of Alumnae of the University of Pennsylvania has started out to raise $150,000 for a club house to be used by the women students, who now number 2,500.

RUMANIANS FORCE AHEAD ON 2 LINES

Force Germans Back in Dobruja and on Transylvania Front.

Teutons Win Successes in East; Italians Lose Captured Ground.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 9.—The Roumanians and Russians, on the offensive in Transylvania and Dobruja, have made further gains according to dispatches.

Berlin admits the Roumanians gained further ground yesterday on the Transylvania front, in the Tulghes sector, but claims near Bodza Pass the Austro-German forces recaptured positions taken recently by the Roumanians.

By the Austro-German conquest of the Roumanian position at Clabucet which had been made a powerful point of support, says the Overseas News Agency, the last salient of the Roumanian line against the Transylvania frontier heights in the sector of Predcal has been taken.

From the abrupt mountain fortress situated five miles southwest of Predcal and at a height of 1,375 yards, the military critic of the News Agency says, the Teutons dominate the road through the pass as well as the village of Azuga. In addition to eight cannon and 20 machine guns, 1,747 Roumanians fell into the hands of the German and Austro-Hungarian troops.

A further advance by the Russians west and south of Mount La Muntola, south of Dorna Watra, near the Roumanian border, was announced officially today. The Russians reached the section of the Bistredra valley from Belbor to Hollo, according to Petrograd.

Austro-Hungarian forces east of the Jui valley have received reinforcements and assumed the offensive. In the direction of Predcal and the Alt, Teutonic attacks continue.

Petrograd reports an Austro-German attack in Volhynia, near Stovichi, on the Stokhod, was repulsed by the Russians. An attempt by the Teutonic forces to advance in the region of Ostrovolos settlement also was defeated.

On the Caucasus front a Turkish battalion which made an attack in the direction of Cgnott was repulsed by the Bulgarians.

The Bulgarians took the offensive yesterday against the Serbians in the Cerna river region, on the Macedonian front, southeast of Monastir. They made three attacks, Paris announces and were repulsed. They retired leaving many dead.

The Austrians directed a heavy bombardment yesterday against Italian positions in the Trentino, on Monte Pasubio and Monte Vanoi, says today's Italian report. The Italians evacuated observation posts on the slopes of Cima di Bocche.

Berlin says British attacks between La Sars and Gueudecourt, on the Somme front, last night, were broken up by the German fire. South of the Somme the Germans lost possession of the village of Presselre, the statement says.

APPLE VARIETIES DISCUSSED.

Detailed descriptions of 110 varieties of Ohio apples ranging from Arkansas to York Imperial are given in Bulletin 290 of the Ohio experiment station. Adaptation, tree characteristics, appearance and quality of the fruit are discussed. Illustrations of many of the varieties are included. Consumers and growers of apples find the bulletin helpful in studying different varieties. It may be obtained free from the station at Wooster.

FOOD AND DRUG FAKERS PAY HEAVY U. S. FINES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Uncle Sam's big stick was wielded vigorously upon the heads of violators of pure food and drug laws last year. Federal Solicitor Gaffey announced today that rigid enforcement by inspectors resulted in action by the courts being invoked in 2,623 violations. The United States government recovered $116,430 in fines and damages. In administering the 28-hour law, which prohibits the unloading of livestock in cars without unloading them for proper periods of rest and feeding, penalties aggregating $52,450 were recovered, in 333 cases.

"MORPHINE KISS" LATEST FORM OF OCULATION

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Enter the morphine kiss.

It is the secret source, say authorities of the house of correction here, of the quantities of dream provoking drugs that are smuggled constantly to prisoner-patients in the "dope cure" ward of the bridewell. A prisoner is being weaned away from the morphine habit against a will. Some bright day a pretty woman comes along. He says she is his wife or his sister or some other near relation. She is overjoyed at meeting her dear one again and naturally she throws her arms around his neck, pulls him close and plants a long lingering kiss upon his lips. The patient shortly afterwards shows signs of having had access to the "joy" drugs. The "dope" was slipped to him in that long, lingering kiss, perhaps as much as 50 or 60 grains.

SUNSET IN THE FOREST

THE sun was setting upon one of the rich grassy glades of the forest. Hundreds of the broad-headed, short-stemmed wide-branched oaks, which had witnessed perhaps the stately march of the Roman soldiery, flung their gnarled arms over a thick carpet of the most delicious greenward; in some places they were intermingled with beeches, hollies, and cypresswood of various descriptions, so closely as totally to intercept the level beams of the sinking sun; in others they receded far enough to form those long sweeping vistas, in the intricacy of which the eye delights to lose itself, while imagination considers them as the paths to yet wilder scenes of sylvan solitude. Here the red rays of the sun shot a broken and discolored light, that partially hung upon the shattered boughs and mossy trunks of the trees, and there they illuminated in brilliant patches the portions of turf to which they made their way.—Sir Walter Scott.

THE SILENCE OF THE WAY.

Silence, whose drowsy eyelids are soft leaves,
And whose half-sleeping eyes are the blue flowers,
On whose still breast the water-lily leaves,
And all her speech the whisper of the showers.

Made of all things that in the water sway,
The quiet reed kissing the arrow-head,
The willows murmuring all a summer's day,
"Silence"—sweet word, and ne'er so softly said

As here along this path of brooding peace,
Where all things dream, and nothing else is done.
But all such gentle business as these
Of leaves and rippling wind, and setting sun.

—Richard Le Gallienne.

Use, by playwrights of today, of the telephone as a device to overcome difficulties of time and space in their story telling is so excessive as to be laughable in some instances. The telephone, after all, has merely displaced the letters that were so freely dispatched and received in the plays written before the telephone era. Bernard Shaw once ridiculed Sardou's dependence on missives as a means of carrying on his plots, declaring in this detail alone did the French dramatists justify his claim for recognition as a man of letters.—C. ## MAY QUIT NURSING FRENCH TO WED PRINCE.

MISS KATHERINE BRITTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Society is discussing today the report that Miss Katherine Britton, who is nursing French wounded in France together with Miss Nona McAdoo, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, to transfer her sympathies to the Teutons allies and wed Prince Alfred Zu Hohenlohe-Schillingfurst, of the Austrian-Hungarian embassy here. No confirmation of the report can be obtained. It has been said that Miss Britton would marry "Dick" Elkins, son of the late West Virginia senator.

Daily Fashion Hint

The notable feature of most of the winter suits is their simplicity of lines. However, the lavish treatment of fur makes up for this plainness. The suit illustrated is shown in navy blue duvety with flaring coat and skirt. Navy silk croch buttons are introduced on the cuffs and front, these affording smart trimming. The high collar is of possum fur.

Blanch 1 cup of rice, drain it, add 4 cups of milk, and cook in the double boiler until the rice is tender and dry. Reserve 2 cups of cooked rice, and to the rest add 1-2 cup of grated cheese and 1-2 cup of white sauce. Mix well, cool, shape, and fry, after dripping in egg and crumbs. Serve with tomato sauce.

Salmon Croquettes—Remove the skin and bones from 1 large can of salmon, and break into small pieces. All to 1 cup of thick white sauce, with 1 teaspoon of salt, a few grains of cayenne, 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Shape and cool. When ready to fry, egg and crumb the croquettes and drop in deep fat.

Sweetbread Croquettes—To 1 cup of thick white sauce, add 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1-4 teaspoon of paprika, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, and 2 cups of cold cooked chopped sweetbreads. When thoroughly cold, shape, dip in crumbs, then in beaten egg, then in crumbs again, and fry in deep hot fat.

Sweet Potato and Almond Croquettes—To 2 cups of mashed sweet potatoes add 1 teaspoon of salt, 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 beaten egg, 3 tablespoons of blanched almonds, chopped and pounded to a mortar, and enough hot milk or cream to make the mixture of a consistency to handle. It will probably be soft enough without the milk. Form into any shape desired, egg, crumb, and fry.

Sweet Rice Croquettes—Cook 1-2 cup of rice, blanched and salted, in 1-2 cups of milk until tender and dry. Add 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons each of butter, sugar, whipped cream, and candied orange peel, shredded fine. When cool, form into peach shapes, or any form desired, dip in egg and crumbs and fry as usual. Serve plain, or with fruit sirup, or fresh or preserved fruit.

BOILED FROSTING.
Boiled frosting may be kept from hardening too rapidly by the following process: When the sirup drops thick like honey, add 5 tablespoons of it to the white of one large egg, well beaten. Beat well. Cook the remainder of the sirup until it forms a soft ball when dropped in water; then add it to the egg and sirup mixture.

MAPLE SUGAR ICING FOR CAKE.
Put maple sugar into a pan with a very little water and melt on the stove. Let it come to a boil, remove, and when cool, add the beaten whites of two eggs. Beat until very light. Cover the cake and sprinkle with almonds or English walnuts.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hardesty and son Muri, of South Jackson street, who leave soon to make their home in Wapakoneta, were pleasantly surprised last evening at their home with a masquerade party. The evening was spent in dancing and at a late hour a delicious lunch was served.

Among the guests were Mrs. John Vogel, Mrs. Thomas Rink and daughter, Mrs. S. Selba, Mrs. H. A. Blackster, Mrs. Frank Harris, Mrs. W. G. Keffer, Mrs. H. Crippen, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Carl Miller, Mrs. C. F. MacFarland, Mrs. William Blackley, Mrs. C. S. Durbin, Mrs. W. S. Kerr and son Eugene, rs. John O'Brien and son.

Missionary society of Calvary Reformed church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. J. Hackmann. The devotions and program were in charge of Mrs. F. M. like. A paper on Bohemian missions was scenes. "Minister 44, is accompanied by a brisk little comedy "The Ghost of a Chance," in which Max Figman is the leading figure, and new Paramount Pictographs. On account of the engagement of Lyman Howe's Travel Festival, which starts Friday, this program will be shown for the last time tonight.

LYMAN H. HOWE.

"Fulfilled all that it promised" is an expression that appears in newspaper reviews of the new Lyman H. Howe Travel Festival which comes to the Faurot on Friday and Saturday. With more than two hours of remarkable reproductions representing natural things that are educating, amusing and thrilling to the minds of appreciative spectators, the new Howe program offers an exceptional treat.

For the first time in the history of the West Point Military Academy moving pictures have been made representing the institution in its gala summer dress. The war department offered the Lyman H. Howe cameras extraordinary facilities for recording all the picturesque points of view at this splendid institution. Since congress increased the number of cadets in the new 1916 classes there have appeared on the beautiful grounds overlooking the Hudson river an extra sized spectacle of splendid young Americans being trained to officer the new and larger United States army. The new statue of George Washington which overlooks the parade grounds adds a touch of patriotic environment which Mr. Howe will reveal in his reproduction of the events in the life of a West Point cadet.

There will be many other features of real interest and value including Sunny Spain, far off Hawaii, Norway, with its famous fjords and towering mountains, outdoor games recorded by the camera at normal and ultra-slow speed beautiful specimens of fresh water fish, and all new estimated cartoons and other comedy films, etc. Seats are now selling for all three performances.

ORPHEUM.

The Orpheum will present an extraordinarily fine vaudeville program for the last half of this week, starting with the opening performances today. As a special feature the well known Keith headliner Homer Lind, the actor-singer, late of Henry W. Savage's Parsifal Co. and the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, supported by Adah Currie Lind, in a one-act musical and dramatic playlet, "The Singing Teacher," depicting the life of a music student in New York, a plot based on truth, combining comedy, pathos, singing, and selections of the violin. This is the first time Mr. Lind has appeared in Lima, he has been identified for years with the finest English Grand Opera companies, and has headlined in the principal Keith theatres of America. "The Singing Teacher" is a sketch somewhat different from any thing presented on the vaudeville stage. As an added attraction Creighton, Belmont and Creighton will present the "Mudtown Minstrels," a travesty on the regular minstrel first part. The dialogue is built for laughing purposes, a great laughing act. Three other high class acts comprise the program.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Washington and Jefferson Master Forward Passing

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Tad Jones, of Yale, uttered truth, when he said: "The only way to break up that forward pass attack of Washington & Jefferson is to oppose him with a team of acrobats that are from eight to ten feet all."

No team in America can use the aerial play with the uncanny perfection of those W. & J. men. They are the standards by which all other forward passers must be judged. They are absolute masters of it, and handle it in a way that almost defies its checking.

W. & J. attempted 58 such plays in that game with Yale a week or so ago and 30 were successful. Only two or three times were the alert Yale men able to intercept the remarkable "pitching" of Lloyd McCreight, the W. & J. fullback. W. & J., on its 30 completed tosses, gained something like 300 yards—a single game record for ball advancement by forward passing that may endure for years to come.

"Never saw anything in my life like that air attack of W. & J.," declared Jones, after the W. & J.-Yale game was over. "The way those Pennsylvania boys handled that ball was baffling. Our men tried to stop it—but they were helpless. We had built up what we thought was a sure defense for that play—and W. & J. made forward passes at will."

Metzger Perfects Pass. Bob Folwell was W. & J.'s first tutor in the forward pass. Bob believed implicitly in the short pass, and rarely varied it with a long throw. Folwell's pass was to a point just a few yards beyond the scrimmage line, and right into the seething mass of battling players. Metzger, however, mixes up his passes, and therein lies the beauty of W. & J.'s 1916 "sky" attack. The enemy, after a time, would check the Folwell short-pass because they knew that invariably it would be made into the line. But they can't do it with Metzger's, because Sol's play "crosses" them.

Most teams use only two or three men on the receiving end of the play. Sooner or later the opposition learns the identity of those men and they "cover" them every time a play is started. As a result, the forward passes by other teams have not been extremely successful. But Metzger has schooled each and every one of his men in the snatching of the ball. And each and every one is used at one time or another during a game.

At the moment the ball is passed, the W. & J. players break through the opposition line and run as far into foreign territory as possible. Then it is up to McCreight to determine which man is at least "covered." That is the man to whom McCreight makes the pass, be he an end, a halfback, guard, center or tackle. When the center snaps back the ball no one—not even McCreight—knows to whom the ball eventually will go. No wonder it is an "unstoppable" play.

Sometimes McCreight makes a 30-yard throw to a player near the sidelines. The next time they throw may be to a W. & J. man 20 feet beyond the middle. Or McCreight may "cross" the enemy by making a short throw to a man who is standing just a few feet ahead of the scrimmage line. He does not operate on schedule; he throws long ones and short ones; into the scrimmage line or far beyond it; and his "mixing" of the tosses is one of the biggest factors in its success.

McCreight a Master Passer.

To watch McCreight handling the ball is worth the price of admission to any game in which he figures. He stands from 10 to 20 yards behind the line, realizing that he must have that much lee-way when the ball is snapped, his line at once quits guarding and devotes its energies to getting into position to take the McCreight throw. Calmly, coolly, McCreight stands there, with the ball in his hand, waiting until he can determine which of his men is least covered. And then, with the control and almost the speed that Walter Johnson exhibits with a baseball, McCreight makes the throw. It is a mystery, how a fellow, with hands as small as McCreight's, can so grasp the big pigskin as to perfectly guide its course.

Those who saw the Yale-W. & J. game, which was won by the Bulldogs, 36 to 14, are a unit in declaring that W. & J. opened with its forward pass, the result would have been vastly different. But W. & J. elected, during almost all of the first half, to use every other offensive play but its remarkable ground game. In the second half, W. & J. actually started its forward passing—and Yale was bewildered. The light Pennsylvania eleven, on successive "skyline" plays, moved the ball up and down the field as it pleased Yale tried desperately—but vainly—to stop it. But with monotonous regularity, McCreight threw the ball and W. & J. men grabbed it for a long gain. And so it went. Once W. & J. got the ball on its own 40-yard line and in four passes by McCreight had carried it across the Yale goal line for a touchdown. It was remarkable—and more.

LIMA IS LUCKY to Have Natural Gas

Gas Service eliminates the dirt. It eliminates the work, the worry. Yet it gives you better heat.

Ask any man who uses Gas Service for cooking or to heat his home.

He'll tell you that Gas Service is clean, convenient, comfortable and dependable.

He'll tell you, too, that it's economical.

So why shouldn't you have the same advantage?

Lima will get ALL the gas that can be supplied from the Medina fields this year.

No one knows just how much this will be. This company simply says: Burn gas in your furnace every day you can; it's cheaper and cleaner.

But always keep a little supply of wood or coal in the bin for breaks in the line and freeze-ups, as Lima gas is piped nearly 180 miles. Past experience shows no one can predict a constant supply of Natural Gas.

Percy Haughton Proves Caliber at Harvard Helm

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The greatness of Percy Haughton as a Coach never has been more forcibly demonstrated than this season. His power to weld together any kind of material into a great eleven shows stronger in 1916 than at any time since he has been guiding the Crimson skiff in the Sea of Football.

Haughton was too busy with his basebal business during the first three weeks of the grueling campaign to give his personal attention to Harvard. But he turned the squad over to his assistants—to men who know his system from end to end. He felt they could school the Crimson warriors in the ways of victory. But they failed.

Under the tutelage of the assistants, Harvard won two games and lost the third. In each combat they showed nothing in the way of greatness. The team looked poor. It seemed to lack the punch and everything else that is necessary for a championship.

And then Haughton got back on the job. But most folks declared that even his presence wouldn't do Harvard much good.

Haughton Performs Miracle. "The material is punk" was the consensus of opinion. "Haughton hasn't Hardwick, Mahan, Brickley, Pennock, Bradlee, and the other stars to build around now. All he's got now is a lot of rookies. Harvard is through, as far as 1916 is concerned."

Well, Perc' old boy, got back into teaching harness and in four short weeks lifted Harvard to the heights of greatness again; caused shivery feelings to radiate along the spinal columns of Yale and Princeton and has made it look as if his team will beat both of the ancient enemies of the Cambridge institution.

Using the same material that was called "punk" when O'Leary and the other assistants were handling it, Haughton has made it into a great football machine. Harvard lacked the "punch" against Colby, Bates and Tufts. Haughton went back on the job then and so drilled, so inspired and so taught that same team that it has developed a half dozen different kinds of knockout wallops.

Harvard's "Come Back". Before Haughton assumed charge this season, Harvard's record was: Colby, 10-9; Bates, 26-0; Tufts, 3-7. And since he came back the compilation is: North Carolina, 21-0; Mass. Aggies, 47-0; Cornell, 23-0; Virginia, 51-0.

From this you will see that Harvard's "punch" per game before Haughton took charge was 13 points, against an average score of 2 1-3 points by its foes. And since then Harvard, pitted against foes far more powerful than the first three, has averaged 37 1-4 points, meanwhile holding its four rivals scoreless.

How does Haughton do it? How can a coach, using "green" material in the main put together a team of such great power when other men had failed? Well, the only answer is that Haughton is a wizard.

PAYDAY JOYS FOR PERSHING'S MEN

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Punitive Expedition, Mexico, Nov. 3, by aeroplane to Columbus, N. M.—Everyone in camp is smiling today. No, Pancho Villa has not been captured. Nor has the order of withdrawal come.

It's pay-day. Since early morning long lines of cavalrymen, dough boys, mule skinner and artillerymen have trailed into the paymaster's office, signed their names to the pay-roll and filed out with gold and silver clinking in their pockets.

This is the day of days in camp. Homesickness and petty "kicks" are temporarily forgotten when the army paymaster arrives, as he does about this time every month.

Before he's through paying off, fully $100,000 will be distributed among the remnants stationed here. There's not much to spend it for down here, so most of it will probably find its way to relatives or banks back in the states. Most of the soldiers who have been with the expedition since it entered Mexico have started savings accounts.

A dozen little stores scattered through the camp give the men a chance to spend some of their month's pay. Mormon business men and business-like Chinese are the proprietors. They sell many things that appeal to soldiers' fancies—stationery, candy, tobacco, blankets, looking glasses, wookies, canned preserves, chocolate, magazines, oil-stoves, coats and underwear.

Once in a great while a "bootlegger" is able to elude the guards and make his way into camp with fire-water carried in five-gallon gasoline cans. Around pay-day, especially, the liquor renders redoubtable their efforts to get into camp with their contraband undetected. If they succeed, small drinks of "pick-handle" are sold for 25 cents apiece.

The quality of the whiskey they sell is notorious—as one man said: "It makes you feel like three drinks of it would give you the power to lick a regiment."

But it is only fair to say that the number of bootleggers who have penetrated the camp are very few. Most of them are Mexicans. Several have been arrested with the "goods" on them.

There is a strange coincidence connected with each pay-day here. When night comes, a low-voiced chorus breaks out all over the camp. Groups of men cluster about rough tables, over which a blanket is spread. They gather about it five and ten deep, so there is no seeing, from the edge of the crowd, what is in progress at the center. But the musical clink of silver and gold is audible. There is a great snapping of fingers and the men bending over the tables, are heard to utter these mysterious, cabalistic words:

"Come on, little Joe!" "Git him, seben!" "Baby needs a pair of shoes!" "Fighter from Decatur!" "Don't you fail me, Big Dick!" "Git every sheep in de fold!" "Read 'em and weep!" "Dat's it, natural!"

For a week after pay-day this goes on every night, then gradually the groups thin out. By the middle of the month all is quiet at night around the tables.

U. S. SAVES DESERTED INDIAN VILLAGE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The now deserted Indian village of Kassan situated within the Tongass National forest, Alaska, has been made a new national monument by proclamation of President Wilson.

The rapid decay of the buildings and the vandalism of tourists and souvenir hunters have made it essential that the village be protected. It was abandoned by the Indians about ten years ago. Remains: there are about 50 Indian totem poles, five or six remarked specimens. There are also eight large square buildings originally constructed according to the peculiar plan of the Haida Indians. The largest is 40 by 60 feet and made of round and carved timbers.

"Kassan" means "a pretty town," and all reports agree that the village was well named. An examination of the area was made by the forest service and the interior department. The Smithsonian Institution endorsed the proposition for the establishment of a national monument. The monument will be administered by the forest service, as it is located within a national forest.

TIRED, NERVOUS, AND RUN-DOWN? Tollo Water is Better Than All the Drugs—A Wineglassful Will Make You Feel Fine in 30 Minutes.

Too much rich food clogs the liver. The drains become choked and cannot discharge the bile, but force it back into the system, making your skin yellow and your tongue coated; your stomach gets upset; you become constipated, have headaches and feel tired, nervous and run-down.

The surest and quickest relief is TOLLO WATER from Dawson Springs, the Kentucky health resort. Get a 15-cent bottle from any drug store and take a third of a tumblerful in a glass of plain water before breakfast. In half an hour it will dissolve and flush out all the bile that is clogging the liver, leaving every tiny tube clean and fresh. It flushes and bathes the liver without irritation and keeps the bowels regular as a clock.

ter fat than those given a ration consisting mainly of grain in a feeding test conducted for 121 days at the Ohio Experiment station. The silage ration was also cheaper for milk production.

The cows gained nearly 8 per cent in milk yield when put on the silage ration. They produced butterfat at a cost of 13 cents a pound, while the cost of a pound from the cows fed mainly grain was 23 cents. There was little difference in the gains in live weight between the two lots.

In addition to 58 pounds of silage and 6.8 pounds of hay, the one lot received only 4 pounds of grain consisting of oilmeal and bran. The grain fed lot received only 12 pounds of corn stover and hay but 13.5 pounds of a grain mixture of oilmeal, cornmeal and bran.

STRONG TONE IS WALL ST. FEATURE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—After irregularity in the initial stock exchange early this morning, the market developed a strong tone and after the end of the first 15 minutes all of the active issues were established at materially higher prices. Most interest was attached to the trading in Marines, with the preferred advancing 4 1/2 points to 123 1/2 and the common 1 1/2 to 45. Steel common sold at 122 1/2 to 123, a net loss of 1 1/2 points from yesterday's closing, but within the next few minutes the stock was strong and ranged around 123 1/2. There was urgent buying of Central Leather which rose 1/4 to 111 1/2. Many of the low-priced issues, including Allis-Chalmers and Southern Railway were in good demand and made material gains.

Crucible Steel rose 1/4 to 93 1/2. Republic Iron 1/4 to 79 1/2 and Sloss-Sheffield 1/4 to 80. Unsettled again prevailed in the late forenoon caused by reports of political developments, and many issues declined from one to two points.

The industrials were among the weakest features. The railway and copper stocks were also heavy. Money loaning at 2 1/2 per cent.

THE CHESS AUTOMATON.

Baron Kempelen of Hungary began to astonish the civilized world of Europe about 1760 with his chess automaton. This was apparently a figure controlled by mechanical devices and which was able, notwithstanding the fact that apparently no intelligence was concerned in its movements and decisions, generally to beat its human antagonists. The cabinet connected with the automaton appeared entirely too small to contain a hidden operator. And yet it did conceal a man who was an expert chess player. He was a Polish patriot who had lost both of his legs—perhaps in the war over Poland. This man, Woronsky by name, was an expert player. With him hidden in the cabinet and yet really on the spot the rest was easy.—Exchange.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

DUKE OF ORLEANS' EARLY ESCAPADES WERE RICH, RACY

Father, Traveling With Him, Indignant Over Call Upon Girls.

Yarn Recalled by Duke's Appeal to Papal Court to Annul Marriage.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.—Recent cablegrams from Paris telling of the application soon to be made to the papal court for annulment of his wife's emnity to France recalls a well-founded story of the Duc d'Orleans' flirtation in this country more than 20 years ago, which suggests that charges made by the duchess that her husband was too fond of other ladies gifted with beauty and wit rested with the gay experiences of the duke that began in his early manhood and continued through many years.

The duchess was Maria Dorothea, archduchess of Austria, and a cousin of Emperor Francis Joseph. She was noted for her beauty when she married the duc d'Orleans in 1896. Some years ago she obtained a separation on the ground of the duke's escapades with other women and now comes his application for annulment.

In the early 90's the duke came over to America with his father, the dignified, proud Comte de Paris, who had written an interesting history of the American Civil war after having served on the staff of Gen. McClellan in the Virginia campaign. The Comte de Paris joined the federal army solely for military experience.

On his second visit to this country he desired to view the battlefields along the James river in Virginia and have his sons, the duc d'Orleans and a younger brother, visit the scenes with him. They were handsome, high-strung young fellows, out for adventure and romance.

So when en route from Norfolk to Richmond on a river steamer both young men were attracted by the beauty of two Richmond girls, the Misses Bullington, who were aboard the boat. One of the girls was a dainty blond, the other a vivacious brunette. They soon suspected the distinguished young aristocrats desired to meet them, and cleverly encouraged the wish, but the stern old Comte de Paris kept a keen eye on his sons, and prevented the meeting.

A reporter for a Richmond newspaper who happened to be aboard the boat took in the situation. He knew the girls and arranged with them to bring the Duc d'Orleans and his brother for a call at their home in Richmond that evening.

The distinguished visitors took rooms at the old Lexington hotel. A problem was to get the count to sleep so the party could slip out for the evening. Finally when he was tucked away the trio took a cab, called on the girls and returned to the hotel before midnight.

One of the young men stumbled just across the hall from the old count's rooms, and he appeared in the doorway as his sons were attempting to sneak into their apartments. There was a scene. The air was blue with expressions of indignation.

"And you, sir, heir apparent to the throne of France!" said the count, trembling with rage. "Think of how this escapade would look in the vulgar American newspapers! I'm distressed beyond measure. Make ready at once to catch the first train to Washington."

The party took the 8 a. m. train express. The Richmond newspaper carried on its front page a two-column story of the affair after it was put on the wires for general distribution.

GUATEMALA ONCE CIVILIZED CENTER

Central American Republic Contains Many Ruins Indicating Culture.

Nation is Land of Milk and Honey, but Needs More Residents.

Guatemala, whose principal port is only three days from New Orleans, deserves a population. She had once a very large one and lost it. About the time of the beginning of the Christian era there existed in Guatemala a people as civilized and as advanced in the arts and sciences as in almost any other part of the world. Most wonderful monuments are still to be found in spite of the destructive effect of a luxuriant vegetation. Behind that civilization there must have been thousands of years of evolution.

There was a large and civilized population at the time of the Spanish invasion. She is more than eager to welcome the possible new invaders, if only their coming means peaceful occupation and industrial development.

Guatemala is in the tropics, but it has great varieties of climate. The land rises five or six thousand feet between the Caribbean and the Pacific and level plains and fertile valleys of high altitude are plenty. This little Central American republic wants, not soldiers of fortune nor adventurers, but settlers. A man may go there, acquire some land and begin in a small way by clearing his property, planting some corn and making pasture for a few cattle. He has only to turn them out to graze, engage some faithful natives to follow them around until they become fat and then drive them down to market. Grasses grow luxuriantly. Some of them are as high as a man's head.

The first crop of corn frequently pays for clearing and sometimes even for the cost of the land. This crop may be followed by any kind of grain or pasture, or, according to the particular situation and elevation, by coffee, cocoa, sugar and banana plantations. The lumber industry is still in its infancy.

The natives represent a mixture of Indian and Spanish blood—a purer strain than the Mexican—and are faithful, honest and industrious. When the employer treats them fairly they are loyal; otherwise they let him severely alone.

Guatemala looks to the United States as her natural leader, as a benevolent big brother. She has had rather more than she likes of the American exploiter, but she stands with open arms to extend a cordial greeting and sympathetic cooperation to any who will come with honest purposes to help her develop her great resources.—World Outlook.

CATS AND WITCHES.

In the middle ages, according to old legends, witches and sorcerers assumed the form of cats. Their mysterious movements and their eyes that glitten in the dark may well have been the cause of this legendary transformation. A German legend tells how a miller's assistant spied a large cat entering his mill. Failing to scare it away, he brought a stick down on its forehead, and it fled, squeaking horribly. Next day he remarked that his wife had a bruised arm, and it turned out that she was a witch who had taken the form of Grimalkin. The story reminds us of the werewolf in Petronius who suffered in the same way.—Chambers' Journal.

NEW JERSEY'S OIL FIELD IS PART OF A LONG STRETCH

Starts in New Brunswick and Extends to Maryland.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 9.—Dr. N. J. Van Hagen, one of the men who have struck oil in a well at Millville, N. Y., said today the petroleum comes from a great belt which starts near Moncton, New Brunswick, re-appears at the eastern end of Long Island, runs near Lake-wood, N. Y., and extends into Maryland and West Virginia.

The belt varies in width, but is nowhere more than 15 miles across, said Dr. Van Hagen, who has spent two years in tracing it.

Dr. Van Hagen says he and his associates have received a $100,000 offer for the well which they are sinking, and from which they can now get about 15 barrels of oil a day, though the final depth has not been reached.

In addition to buying nearly 8,000 acres of land, lying mostly between the Manantico creek and the Bismarck river about 60,000 000 acres have been leased in the vicinity of Hamamont.

In drilling near Millville a great variety of formations was encountered. After 100 feet or so of sand and clay a four-foot vein of 47 per cent iron ore was struck. Trenton rock was passed through and finally came a 60-foot section of oil bearing shale of superior quality.

Immediately after this came the true oil bearing sandstone, through which the drill is now being driven. Only second in importance to the discovery of the oil was that of a large deposit of ozocerite, a mineral wax described as crude or naturally distilled paraffine. It was found beneath a layer of trap rock, which was sufficiently open to allow the light oil and gas to evaporate, leaving the wax as a deposit. The only other commercial value mineral wax deposits, it is said, are in Galicia and Utah.

According to Dr. Van Hagen, the New Jersey deposit is worth working and could be mined somewhat as sulphur is in Louisiana, by steam melting. Ozocerite when distilled makes candles superior to ordinary paraffine, since they do not melt so easily, and also provides certain light oils and a product similar to vaseline. The residue, called okonit, is extensively used as an alloy in manufacturing black rubber insulating material.

Your wants can be found in the public. The people should have places want column.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

Villa Uses Own Name to Hide Whereabouts

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Punitive expedition, Mexico, (by motor train to Columbus, N. M.), Nov. 9.—Pancho Villa has found a new way to mystify his enemies, the Carrancistas and deceive them as to his personal movements. Mexicans arriving here from the country to the south in which Villa's bandits are operating have brought the story to headquarters, of the guerrilla's newest strategy.

The arrivals say Villa has instructed all his subordinate commanders to spread the news through the country that he is with their particular band. As there are less than a dozen bands, varying in length from 50 to three hundred men and operating in three things in their own hands, huahua, the scheme effectively conceals Villa's whereabouts.

One group of bandits, for instance, rides into Temesachio after dark and takes all the provisions to be found in the village. As they go about their looting, each bandit tells the frightened townspeople that Villa himself is with them. None of the natives is bold enough to go out and see for himself whether the statement is true.

At the same time another band of raiders is robbing a village 50 miles south of Temesachio. These bandits tell the villagers the same story. This may be repeated in half a dozen towns at the same night. Result: Next day General Trevino at Chihuahua City, or General Pershing here is notified that Villa has been in six widely separated villages on the same night. And the chances are that he has really not been in any of them.

Besides protecting Villa from the discovery, this ruse adds strength to the bandit groups using it. The very name of the outlaw is enough to terrorize the peaceful villagers who hear it, and all idea of resistance to the looters, who may be less than 50 strong, disappears.

The few male civilians who venture out of their homes to get a look at the bandit chieftain are promptly made prisoners by the raiders and carried off to serve under Villa—or face the firing squad.

General Pershing remarked today that this straggle is the main cause of the numerous conflicting reports of Villa's movements which reach the border.

"There is no such thing," said the general, "as an absolutely reliable and accurate report of Villa's whereabouts. There are times, of course, when Mexicans who have actually seen Villa in a certain place make known the fact, but by the time the information travels two hundred miles overland to me, it is almost certain Villa is somewhere else. It works the same way, I imagine, in reaching General Trevino."

Although Carrancistas and Villistas have clashed several times in the last two weeks, none of the former have seen Villa. But they have all ways thought he was in personal command on nearly every occasion.

"The Fox has lost none of his cunning, and his bite is more deadly than ever," is the way the Mexicans describe Villa.

HOW BRITAIN FEELS TOWARD AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—What is the real British opinion of America's attitude in this war?

This is the question I put a short time ago, while crossing the ocean London bound, to Galliard Lapsley, one of the best informed of all British men of letters on things American, as well as British. For while Professor Lapsley looks all over the British college don and holds the chair of medieval history at the now almost deserted Cambridge University, he is by no means the insular-minded man that one might easily have supposed.

Professor Lapsley has lived many years in America, serving at Harvard, and also in California, in university work. But he is a keen, interested observer of current history in the making, as well as a student of things of previous centuries.

We had been talking with J. P. Morgan and Ambassador Page, both on the way to London, and the point of British opinion of America had been led up to in a conversation covering a wide range.

"Well," said Prof. Lapsley in reply, "I hardly know how to express it best. I may say that Britons hold mingled sentiments—a mixture of indignation, wonder and bewilderment. A large part of the people are frankly indignant that America should not come out openly in the fight they feel is a fight for the advance of freedom among civilized nations. Among a smaller class, better read, perhaps, there is an effort to get your point of view as we learn it through official notes, acts, etc., but frankly we cannot."

I have become convinced from many talks with men in many walks in England that the professor's diagnosis is as correct as one can get. The man in the street makes no bones about it, and we are not popular there tell me they are made to feel it every day. When you arrive you are treated with a coolish courtesy, but certainly not with warmth.

Today, when the Noordam came into port here from Rotterdam, there was a great rush for newspapers, no news having been received by wireless since leaving Falmouth ten days ago. Among the seekers was Lord Brabourne, who came recently into his title through death at the front of his predecessor in the title. At once he leaped to news of the sinking by U-boats of the Marina.

"Now, will they act?" he exclaimed.

I called his attention to the fact that the Americans on board were not passengers, but employees of the British owners, a fact apparently putting them on their own responsibility and not under pledges obtained by President Wilson on the submarine controversy.

"Oh, yes," his lordship cried, "always a way out in excuse," and strode away.

When the U-53 appeared off our coasts London papers made the news a great feature and editorialized by the column to prove that here at last were circumstances that should bring America over, lock, stock and barrel, on the side of the allies, and disgust threw when no such result was forthcoming.

Incidentally this was about the only piece of news from America that graced British papers for weeks. Beyond an occasional political article London papers practically ignored.

more news from America, this supposing the censor does not stop it. For he it known that every word of news in English papers goes through that office.

Every Britisher on board the Noordam was anxious to get to America for one openly expressed reason, at least—that he could get more news of the big war than he could anywhere else in the world.

At the moment nothing is talked about more in the home politics of England than the rapid moving nationalization—some critics call it socialization or Germanization—of the industries affecting the necessities of life, and more particularly the necessities of war.

Taking control of wheat is felt to be a step calling for more steps, possibly control of sale, control of price, control of shipping and shipping rates. It is felt that even control of all the food staples, and of all public utilities and even of land rental values may come.

Enormous vested interests will fight this to the last, particularly the land holders of the nobility, the shipping people and makers of war profits generally. Under the plea of war necessity the coalition government can go far along these lines, but even now they have halted at absolute prohibition of the manufacture and sale of liquor, limiting retail sales to two hours at noon, and three in the evenings. This, however, has not thus far apparently lessened output and consumption, I am told.

But so rapid has been the increase of the cost of living in England (a pound sterling now being worth, according to the official figures, only 12 of the 20 shillings it was worth before the war) that the labour party has gained in power rapidly. Income taxation, running about 15 per cent for a $5,000 income and sliding up and down above and below that figure, renders the pound of income still less available.

The tax on profits in war times of 50 per cent of the increase over peace times helps add to the burden.

Yet despite all the manifold burdens and pains war imposes, in spite of the call for more men and still more men, in spite of the losses of 100,000 a month, one cannot ignore the fact that England fully believes she is going to be on the winning side—when the time comes.

But it is generally felt that that time is not immediately at hand, that it certainly will not be within a few months, that it may be even two or more years. This certainly seems to intensify the feeling against America for maintaining her neutrality.

CAUTIOUS CAPTAIN SENDS 13 CHINESE TO JAIL

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—Captain Harris of the steamer Netherlands, which has just arrived here, is not much on taking chances. As a result the 13 Chinese sailors in his crew were lodged in jail and are to be held there until the vessel is ready to sail. Captain Harris had learned that should a Chinese escape from a ship into this country the captain will be held liable to a fine of $1,000.

So the thirteen Celestial seamen while they work for him will never see anything of American ports except the prison cells and the way between the jail and ship.

FEDERAL EXPERT WILL LECTURE ON HOG CHOLERA TOPIC

Dr. J. D. Groves, of Lima, employed by the government in the department of agriculture, bureau of animal industry, will address the Bluffton Community association tonight at their hall in Bluffton.

The object of Dr. Groves' work is to educate the farmers along lines of preventive measures in hog cholera. The aim is to assist them in preventing cholera, rather than to vaccinate every year, as is now the custom.

No rigid quarantine methods are employed in the work, but farmers are left to do their own voluntary quarantining. The measures recommended are so simple that any farmer can put them into practice.

The lecture will deal with this matter.

LEADING HIM TO IT.

Dillydally (a chronic procrastinator)—I dreamed last night that I—er—ah—proposed to you. I wonder what that is a sign of? Miss Lingerlong (desperately)—It is a sign that you have got more sense when you are asleep than when you are awake.—Tilt-Bits.
